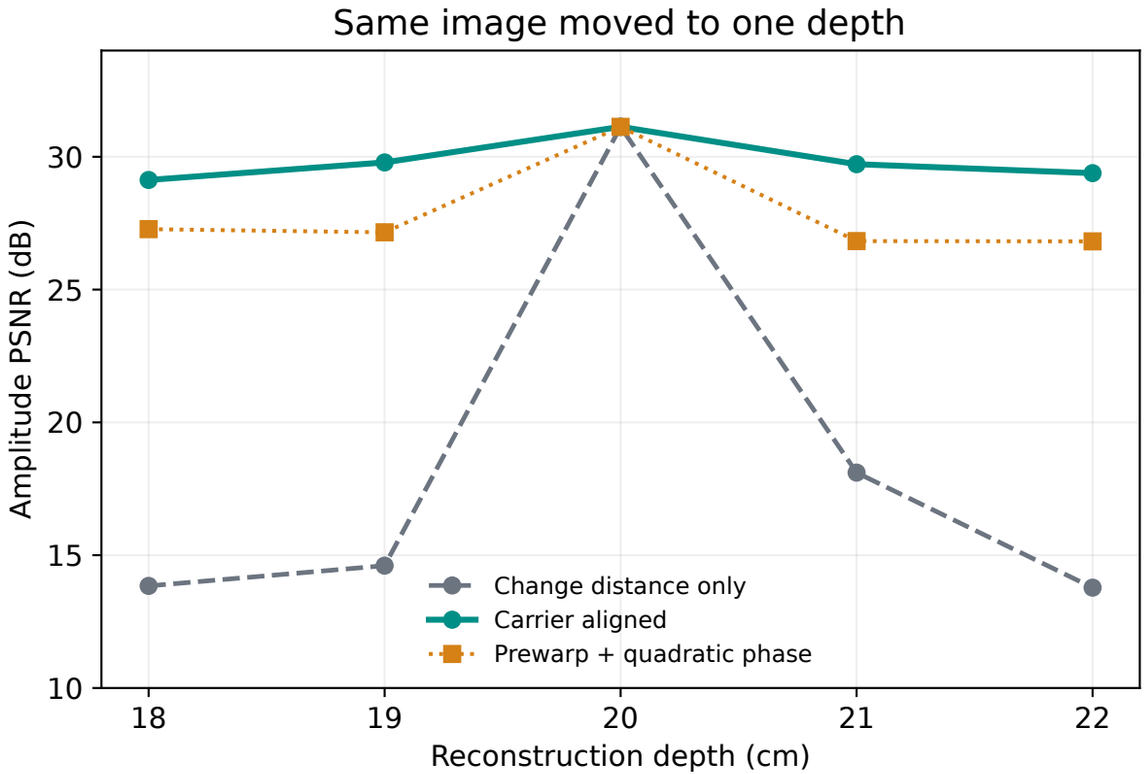
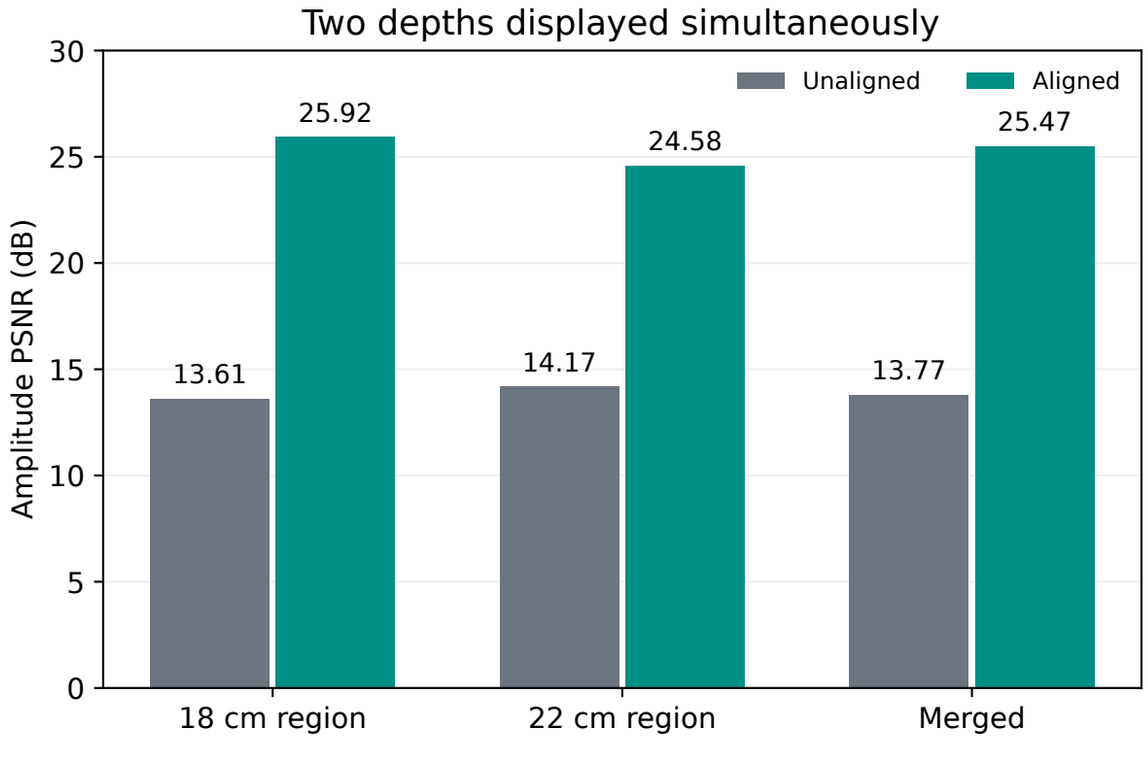
Quantitative validation without additional training





Metrics use original float records. At 20 cm the lens transform is identity; its recorded baseline is shown.
Single-image simulation only. The two panels are different tasks; neither is directly comparable with PHAROS dataset scores.